As far as I can tell, there are no commandments movies. Feel free to make your own! Note: This is not the introduction for an informative and factual blog post, but rather a place holder for anyone who does not want their introduction shared. Do not copy this introduction. It is only an example of what types of things to write in an introductory paragraph. Please do not plagiarize this introduction. Be sure to include your name, blog's URL, and the website's URL for this introduction. If you cannot remember what you wrote, just copy and paste this paragraph into your post.

I will be the first to admit that I feel guilty about stealing money from others, but I can't help it! I just love to steal money! It is so fulfilling for me when I get away with my thievery—as if I am somehow morally superior to others. Actually, I'm not so much better than other people as I am just determined to do whatever it takes in order to take what others have accomplished or accomplished more than me. I find it difficult to admit that I am really sorry for my crimes, but I do try to make amends for my wrongdoings... That's right, I admit it! I didn't leave anything out. I gave you the short version of my introduction. My next step is to edit this section so that it has more detail about how I have tried to turn over a new leaf and apologize for my now many misdeeds.

Above are examples of introductions you can use as well as the information needed in the introduction.

The problem is that once I get started, it is hard to stop. I must clear my mind of everything that does not fit the way I want it to look in my introduction. I feel like I am in a horrible nightmare where my character is constantly making bad choices and trying to make amends for anything he or she has done wrong in the past, but is never successful. Follow the format written above with every single sentence in this paragraph.

By getting hired at a local company, where many people have been laid off from other companies, I have been able to earn money for myself and have been able to take care of myself and provide for my family. Even though it can be a bit discouraging at times, my family and I have been able to survive the financial downturn and the recession. Have a conversation with yourself as if you are writing your introduction.

In conclusion, I believe that my biggest accomplishment in life is being able to provide for my family as well as live a happy and peaceful existence. My house has been completely renovated, and there is nothing that can keep us from being happy. Just look at the many decorative items I have collected over the years! They make me smile every time I walk into our home!

As usual with the introductory paragraph, follow the format written above with every single sentence in this paragraph.
